Velikosrpska genocidna agresija na Bosnu i njezin matični narod Bošnjake nisu zaustavljeni "dejtonskim mirom", nego su nastavljeni nesmanjenim intenzitetom drugim sredstvima. Postgenocidno zatiranje bosanskog imena, bosnocid, na polovici okupirane bosanske teritorije, na kojoj je napravljeno bezbroj masovnih grobnica i barbarski zbrisano bosansko ime sa lica zemlje Bosne pa uzpostavljena dejtonska paradžavica sa mono-etničkom atribucijom "srbska", umjesto "genocidna", shodno presudi Internacionalnog suda prava (ICJ) u Haagu, jedan je od najeklatantnijih primjera ubijanja jednog naroda u mirnodobsko vrijeme u cjelokupnoj europskoj historiji. Plansko i sistematsko brutalno uništavanje i iskorjenjivanje Bošnjaka sa njihovog etničkog prostora obuhvaća i posrbljavanje bosanskih sela i gradova u sklopu "etničkog čišćenja" bošnjačkog materijalnog i nematerijalnog kulturnog naslijeđa, poput toponima, etnonima i lingvonima, ali i drugih obilježja toga naroda

Greater Serbia genocidal aggression against Bosnia and its main nation – the Bosniaks, was not stopped with the „Dayton Peace“, but rather continued with an undiminished intensity by other means. Post genocidal suppression of Bosnian name, the bosnocide, on the half of Bosnian occupied territory, on which the countless mass graves have been made and on which Bosnian name was erased from the face of the earth in a barbaric way and then the Dayton para-state with mono-ethnic attribution ‘‘Serbska’’, instead of ‘‘Genocidal’’ was established, according to the verdict of the International Court of Law (ICJ) in the Hague, is one of the most blatant examples of killing a nation in peacetime in all of European history. Planned and systematic brutal destruction and eradication of Bosniaks from their ethnic area includes serbianization of Bosnian villages and cities as part of the ‘‘ethnic cleansing’’ of the Bosniak tangible and intangible cultural heritage, such as the names of the places, ethnonyms and lingvons, but also other characteristics of this nation.
